

There has been too little public discussion of this issue to proceed to final rulemaking. The public's interest in diverse sources of information requires additional time to review the changes that are being proposed and additional time to file comments.